As a New Yorker cartoon, it might work: In a crowded university field house, exhausted students survey a series of recruiting booths: "Interfraternity Council," says a sign over one booth. "Student Government," says another. And the third booth is festooned with red, white and blue bunting and the seal of the American Central Intelligence Agency. Criminal Kingpin A Guest? Star: No

CARSON CITY, Nev., Aug. 31 — The future of Frank Sinatra's posh Cal-Neva casino-hotel on Lake Tahoe dangled in jeopardy today. Authorized rumors that a notorious underworld figure spent his weekends there.

But the subject of the rumors — Chicago hoodlum Sam Giancana — was not to be found.

And Sinatra remained in seclusion at his hotel.

Nevada Gaming Control Board Chairman Edward Olsen said that Giancana, 52, is listed in the state's "black book" of top underworld figures, and the Cal Neva Lodge would risk loss of its gaming license if it is proved he was a guest there.

A FIGHT

He said the investigation has been underway since mid-July, when reports of a fight between Giancana and an unidentified man (in which Sinatra was said to have acted as peacemaker) sifted back to his organization.

But he admitted his inquiry has turned up "discrepancies" in information supplied by witnesses, and indicated that no action was contemplated until the facts are ascertained.

For his own part, Sinatra referred callers to a Hollywood attorney who flatly declared there was "no truth to the rumors that any underworld character was at the lodge or got into a fight there."

Continuing on this line, the lawyer said:

"Our security department has not reported any fight such as is described, nor do we have any information Sam Giancana visit-

Several parents have accused the Army of attempting to cover up abuse problems at its day care centers. At the end of June, the parents of 23 children had filed $55 million in claims against the Army — the first step toward filing a civil suit against the government — alleging negligence that led to the abuse.

"They aren't thinking about the children when they make these decisions," parent Jerry Stinnett said Monday. "If they take it to court and lose, then they tarnish their records and reputations. But if they don't do anything, their records remain good and the children are forgotten."

The Presidio case originally surfaced in November of 1986 when a 3-year-old boy told his mother that one of his day care teachers had hurt him "and I cry and I cry." Three arson fires were reported at the day care center after the investigation began. Several of the children said they were ritually abused

"It's a difficult case," said Williams of the district attorney's office. "At this time, I just don't have the evidence to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that he (Aquino) and his wife did what was alleged."

McQueen Defends Violence On TV; Says Viewers Want It

"The fans don't care if there is violence in their TV western fare — what they want most is action," declares Steve McQueen, star of "Wanted — Dead or Alive" vidfilm series. "There's nothing like going out to meet the people and getting their viewpoint," says McQueen. Slam-bang action, rather than subtle characterization, is what TV viewers want in westerns, he has gathered from his talks with people on his tours. "And the action must be sustained or there is a quick twist of the dial," he added.

Presidio Satanist a scary enigma to observers

'We're dealing with a man's religious beliefs, and if that's the way he wants to practice them that's up to him'

— Col. Ben Waller, Sixth Army spokesman

By Ivan Sharpe
SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER

His pale face, eyebrows that stab upward like the horns of the devil, and shiny black hair shaped into a prominent widow's peak over his forehead make Michael Aquino look more like a 1930s actor playing Dracula than what he claims to be — Satan's earthly lieutenant, the Prince of Darkness.

He was a wacko to many who saw him at the Presidio officers' club wearing a black shirt and clerical collar with a satanic medallion around his neck. To those who know Lt. Col. Aquino as one of the Army's experts on psychological warfare, he is more of a scary enigma.

Police, the FBI and the Army long have been curious about the activities of the high priest of the satanic Temple of Set — a man who believes he is the Second Beast of Revelation.

The Aug. 14 police search of his Russian Hill home, in connection with the Presidio child-abuse case, gave a more serious tilt to the Aquino mystery.

Aquino and his wife, Lilith — a former New York coven leader of the Church of Satan — have not been arrested since the 3½-year-old stepdaughter of a Presidio assistant chaplain identified the couple as the "Mikey" and "Shamby" who allegedly molested and photographed her in a black-walled room with a cross on the ceiling.

However, authorities confirm that there is an investigation and that the Aquinos still are suspects.

Aquino called the raid and seizure of videotapes, photographs, documents and a computer "pretty traumatic."

Until last July, he was a full-time student at the Pentagon's National Defense University in the District of Columbia. That is considered a distinction for a reserve officer. "The United States just paid me the highest honor it could by sending me to that post, and then to return to my home town and have this (the police raid) happen to me is just unbelievable and outrageous," Aquino said in a telephone interview.

By all accounts, Aquino apparently has had a dazzling Army career. He was a psychological warfare officer in Vietnam, earning the Bronze Star, Air Medal and Army Commendation Medal. He also qualified in the airborne, special forces and intelligence fields, graduated on the commandant's list from the Command and General Staff College and wrote ROTC textbooks.

He retired from the regular ar-

Satanic cult complains of harassment

By John Hanchette
Gannett News Service

WASHINGTON — The high priest of a satanic worship group drawing Pentagon and media attention filed a complaint Tuesday with a civilian review board of the San Francisco Police Department, asking a halt to further investigation of the Temple of Set.

Michael A. Aquino, founder of the satanic church and a U.S. Army lieutenant colonel, directed the legal request to the Office of Citizen Complaint, asking that intelligence division detective Sgt. Sandi Gallant and juvenile division inspector Sgt. Glen Pamfiloff "cease their abusive, harassing investigation" of Aquino and his wife, Lilith, a priestess in the devil worship organization.

The Office of Citizen Complaint, after reviewing the request, will make a recommendation to the San Francisco police chief.

The Aquinos, long residents of California, now live in St. Louis, where he is stationed at the Army Reserve Personnel Center.

Aquino owns property in Marin, San Francisco and Santa Rosa. He inherited a $3.2 million estate in 1985 when his mother, the late Betty Ford-Aquino, died of cancer in San Francisco.

Aquino's house at 828 Mission St. in San Rafael was built in 1880 and was the residence of the first mayor of San Rafael, Edward C. McCarthy.

Aquino believes he's being harassed because of his religious beliefs.

A spent shell was reported found near the door of an abandoned building across the street from where Flynt fell, wounded, though police spokesmen decline to verify the description of the weapon involved. A clerk at the Sherwin Williams paint store next door says that until five or six years ago the building held a chiropractor's office. Its windows are shattered, doors hang from the hinges. The rear exit leads conveniently through an overgrown back yard to a parking lot. In short, the stone building could have been an assassin's lair.

Satan rules both the Soul and the Body.

Jehovah and Lucifer rule the two sides of the mental conflict, which is active in every human being, and which is called the Mind.

Christ rules the Essence, which is the core of the Being.

In the human state, the Being is divided within itself. The Soul is separated from the Body by the Mind, which is itself divided into two conflicting halves; one an Image of the Soul, the other an Image of the Body. The resulting state of almost constant tension is the human predicament.

Through the Spirit of Christ within the Being, the conflict of the Mind can be resolved. The Spirit of Jehovah and the Spirit of Lucifer can be brought together in harmony and reconciliation. Then Soul and Body can be reunited by the Spirit of the Unity of Christ and Satan, within the Essence ●

Thomas L. Donnelly, La Crosse attorney, was chosen chairman of the La Crosse County unit of the Herman M. Clapp for Congress committee at an organization meeting held here Monday night.

The La Crosse unit is the first county group to be organized in the third congressional district for the support of Clapp, Lancaster newspaper editor and former secretary to the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr. Clapp is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

on him. But Elvis keeps right on climbing, breaking about three strings on his guitar every performance and lighting a fire in his audience.

Here are some letters:

A Central High Student writes: "I am a high school senior and have never considered myself a goody-goody. I do all the things most boys my age do . . . I'll tell you and everybody that I think what he does on television and wherever he sings is a pretty rotten thing. I don't want my mother or my sisters to see such things . . . I sure as heck don't like it."

Jane Vickers, Memphis: "I guess that I'm pretty much of a square, but I think that Elvis Presley stinks. I think that his acting and squirming around is too suggestive and disgusting . . . I thought you might be interested in hearing from one teen-ager who thinks he's horrible."

Worried Mother writes: "I wonder what it is going to take before people wake up to what exactly he is doing. All the men and women in my civic clubs rave up in arms about it. . . ."

I don't see how anyone, whether they like the music or not, can watch Elvis without sensing the magnetism about him. Whether they approve or not is something else.

Rock 'n' roll has come under vigorous assault, and now it gets some strangely assorted defenders.

A nationally known psychiatrist termed it "a communicable disease . . . appealing to adolescent insecurity. . . ."

Sammy Kaye, Benny Goodman and Paul Whiteman say posh.

Kaye: "Some years ago when the teen-agers began to Lindy Hop there were persons who called them lunatics and delinquents. I have no doubt the same reception greeted those who first danced the fox trot."

Goodman and Whiteman both invited the psychiatrist to compare scrapbooks, showing how similar charges were made against them years ago for allegedly "corrupting the youth" of their day, first with jazz then with swing.

Red Foley makes an interesting point on the strange wedding today of country, blues and pop music. Country music as we knew it is gone, he said. "Presley and Perkins, why they're basically more rock 'n' roll than country, but they're making the kind of records the juke boxes want. And as they say—if you can't fight 'em, jine 'em. There'll be no turning back. What has happened is that things like TV and radio have brought the country closer together. The fellow in the hill country sees the same program as the man in the city."

You can go, eat go, but don't step on "Mes Souliers Bleus!"

Carl Perkins' rock 'n' roll hit, "Blue Suede Shoes," has been recorded in French—the 13th recording of the Perkins composition other than his own.

Sun Records of Memphis has been informed that RCA Victor made the French version in Montreal for release first in Canada.

Perkins' Sun release, still climbing, has hit No. 7 position in Billboard's list of the 100 best-selling records nationally. Presley's "Heartbreak Motel" is No. 5.

ELVIS PRESLEY—He needs a police escort to get to his dressing room. He still gets home as often as possible, has bought a nice piece for himself and fells over an Audubon, phones home to friends like Dewey Phillips every few days. Controversy flares, and his records keep right on selling.

'Long Tall Sally'

No. 1 record best-seller in Memphis, according to WMPS Top 40 survey last week, is something called "Long, Tall Sally," sung by Little Richard.

Teen-age talk is that there is something bluer than movie shows about some of the words, but they don't know what.

"Long, Tall Sally" was recently cleared for playing by a major radio network known for its strictness in barring suggestive or double entendre lyrics.

An amusements trade publication asked the chief censor about it, and he said:

"It's possible there was something wrong with the record, but I couldn't understand a word of it."

Actress Gets Foul Threats

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 19 (AP). Three obscene letters threatening violence have been received by the family of actress Elizabeth Taylor, her studio said today.

The letters were turned over to the FBI.

Two of the letters, one from Brooklyn, were so vile Miss Taylor's family would not permit the girl to see them.

Elizabeth Taylor

A studio spokesman said the letters were received over a period of several weeks. Miss Taylor at first was inclined to discredit the letters as the work of some crank, he said, but decided to tell authorities after the third one arrived.

The letters apparently were written by three separate individuals, he said.
